Any normal child who's presented with poems by Adrian Mitchell, the ubiquitous McGough, Ted Hughes, Ivor Cutler and-gasp!-John Lennon will probably be instantly corrupted. Isn't the government doing anything about this shocking depravity? I am, hopeless corrupter of our nation's youth that I am. Why, I've even been known to recommend the work of that nefarious pair Mike Rosen and Quentin Blake, whose You Can't Catch Me, André Deutsch, 0 233 97345 £4.95 pbk, can now be bought together with the paperback of Wouldn't You Like to Know (Puffin). Whawt with the appearance of Mick Gowar's Swings and Roundabouts (Collins), Kit Wright's Hot Dog and Other Poems (Kestrel) and various others, I think there's no hope for our nation's youth.
